

National Association of Rehab Providers & Agencies
Copyright, Intellectual Property Rights, and Release of Information Policy

The National Association of Rehab Providers and Agencies respects the ownership of materials by those who have developed them. It is our policy which is extended to speakers to cite, in writing, all references being used to supplement any presentation and to obtain permission in writing from the copyright holders of such information prior to presenting it publicly as part of any NARA-sponsored course or workshop. Speakers should inform NARA prior to their speaking engagement of any copyrighted material and submit proof of written permission. All applicable trademarks and copyrights must be included in material displayed and distributed.

Additionally, should any information pertaining to a member, patient, client or others not employed by the Speaker used as a teaching tool must provide a written release from the individual(s) depicted prior to use of any specific information for instructional purposes. It is our policy to limit use of personal case information to those instances involving educational advancement.

Any program offered by NARA is submitted by authors with no proprietary interest in the product(s) they may mention. If any relationship exists, the speaker is required to disclose this in their disclosure statement submitted with their speaker agreement form. NARA requires the speaker provide notification to the learner of any interest in any product, instrument, device, service or material discussed in the activity and the source of compensation related to the presentation by any of its instructors.

It is the objective of NARA to be a forum for free expression and interchange of ideas. The opinions and positions expressed by the contributors to this work are their own and not necessarily those of the ownership, editors or NARA.

It is expected the procedures and practices described in the courses will be used only by qualified practitioners in accordance with professional standards and in compliance with applicable practice statutes. Every effort has been made to assure the information presented is accurate and consistent with generally accepted practices. However, the authors, editor, and publisher cannot accept responsibility for errors or omissions, or for the consequences of incorrect application of information by individuals or rehabilitation professionals. No warranty, express or implied, is made regarding the contents of this text.

The information contained in a course may not be reproduced in whole or in part, by any means, without permission. For information, address: NARA, 1201 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Suite 800, Washington, DC 20004.

The expectations within this policy are extended to speakers of NARA sponsored events.